

ABSTRACT:

A multiprocessor system, more particularly for terminal devices of mobile radiotelephony, in which system are arranged on a common chip:

- at least two processors,
- at least one rewritable memory which can be accessed by the two processors,
- 5 - at least one cache memory via which the first processor has access to the memory,
- at least one bridge via which the second processor has access to the memory.